

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a composition containing an antisense oligonucleotide, and the use thereof to treat Duchenne muscular dystrophy. The present invention particularly 5 relates to the above-described composition that is effective for the treatment of Duchenne muscular dystrophy when it is administered at a dose for the treatment, and the use thereof.