

PACKAGED BEVERAGE

ABSTRACT

An object of the present invention is to develop a technique for reducing the deterioration in the quality of aroma of a packaged beverage over time.

According to this invention, provided is a packaged beverage comprising two or more beverage compositions that differ in compositional profile and are each packed in two or more beverage storage segments. The packaged beverage of this invention is characterized in that a beverage composition packed in at least one beverage storage segment has a pH of 3.5 or more.