

ABSTRACT

Provided in embodiments of the present application are an information 5 transmission method, network apparatus, and terminal apparatus, enabling flexible distribution of reserved resources, and accordingly improving efficiency of using the reserved resources. The method comprises: a network apparatus sending second instruction information used to configure first instruction information; and the network apparatus sending, according to the configuration of the first instruction 10 information, the first instruction information used to instruct resource reservation.

FIG. 2