

ABSTRACT

A semiconductor device includes a well region in a substrate, a semiconductor pattern on the well region, the semiconductor pattern including an impurity, and a gate electrode on the semiconductor pattern. A concentration of the impurity in the semiconductor pattern increases in a direction from an upper portion of the semiconductor pattern, adjacent to the gate electrode, to a lower portion of the semiconductor pattern, adjacent to the well region.

FIG. 1B