

Abstract

The invention relates to powdered inorganically post-processed titanium oxide, a processes for production thereof and use thereof for manufacturing catalysts, particularly for the application as photocatalyst and as support for refinery catalysts.