9. The method of any one of claims 1-8, wherein step (I) provides the second major surface of the flexible glass sheet with a larger surface area than a surface area of the first major surface of the carrier substrate.

10. The method of claim 9, wherein step (I) provides that the outer edge portion of the flexible glass sheet laterally circumscribes the first major surface of the carrier substrate.