

Abstract

A hydrogenation catalyst, a preparation method and use therefor, and an oil product hydrotreating method. The hydrogenation catalyst comprises a support and an active component. The support comprises a nickel-aluminum alloy. The active component comprises a sulfur-containing organic molybdenum compound. The hydrogenation catalyst has high hydrotreating capacity for inferior raw oil products.