

BRANCH HISTORY TABLEABSTRACT

In a branch processing unit (810) a branch history table (100) is accessed by a branch instruction address associated with a scanned branch instruction before the entire address has been computed. The branch history table (100) is partitioned into a first memory array associated with even instruction addresses and a second memory array associated with the odd instruction addresses.

Figure 8