

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a method for detecting contaminants of glucose polymers, 5 said contaminants being capable of acting in synergy with one another so as to trigger an inflammatory reaction, characterized in that it comprises an in vitro inflammatory response test using modified cell lines.