

A method for collecting bacteria from fermentation broth suitable for automatic operation

Abstract

Disclosed is a method for collecting bacteria from bacterial or fungal fermentation culture broth, the method comprising the steps of: a) mixing bacterial or fungal fermentation culture medium with a carboxylated chitosan to obtain a mixture; optionally, b) adding a sodium alginate solution to the mixture and mixing homogeneously; and c) precipitating to obtain bacterial or fungal cell precipitate or culture supernatant.

10 (No Suitable Fig.)