Abstract

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE SECRETASE

The present invention provides a modified APP protein or fragment thereof containing an APP cleavage site and two lysines at the carboxy terminus. The invention further provides for the associated nucleic acids, peptides, vectors, cells, and cell isolates. These products are useful for identifying candidate therapeutics for treatment and prevention of Alzheimer's disease.

[No accompanying figure]