

Coated hair and use thereof

Abstract

5 The present invention relates to implantable hair which is characterized in that it is coated at least in an implantable section with a composition that comes into direct or indirect contact with the hair and contains at least one silk protein. The present invention is further concerned with methods of producing such an implantable hair and the cosmetic use thereof.

10

[No Figure]