Abstract:

An object to be achieved by the present invention is to provide a method for treating detrusor hyperactivity with impaired contractility. The present invention provides a method for treating detrusor hyperactivity with impaired contractility using 3-(15-hydroxypentadecyl)-2,4,4-trimethyl-2-cyclohexene-1-one, a salt thereof, or a solvate thereof, as an active component.