

[ABSTRACT]

The present invention aims to provide, in the production of proteins such as antibody, a method for improving the production amount of the protein; a method for improving the 5 genome productivity and/or the integrity of the viral genome in the production of viral vectors; and compositions therefor. The production of at least one desired component in a cell can be enhanced by contacting the cell with a composition containing an organic solvent.

10

[No suitable figure]