

ABSTRACT

A food composition contains a fermented product of a plant material, and has a breaking stress of 1.00 N/m^2 or more at a time point when a breaking strain rate is 50% in a state of being formed into a patty shape.

(Fig. 1)