

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a battery history management method and a device for performing same. The battery history management method may include the steps in which: a 5 battery history management device generates a battery non-fungible token (NFT) on the basis of a blockchain; and the battery history management device generates battery value evaluation data corresponding to the battery NFT to record the battery value evaluation data on the blockchain.

FIG.1 for publication