

ABSTRACT

Disclosed embodiments provide computer-implemented systems and methods related to automatically assigning and reassigning delivery tasks to delivery workers. The systems and methods may access databases storing information associated with delivery tasks and delivery workers, assign the delivery tasks to the delivery workers, and reassign the delivery tasks to find better combinations between the assigned delivery tasks and the delivery workers.