

ABSTRACT

Disclosed are a method and device for information determination and configuration, and a computer storage medium. The method comprises: a terminal device receiving first configuration information transmitted by a network device, the first configuration information being used for configuring a set of CSI-RS resources, where CSI-RS resources in the set of CSI-RS resources are quasi co-located with respect to a first QCL parameter.

FIG. 1