

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE
COMMUNICATION APPARATUS, CONTROL METHOD, AND COMPUTER-
READABLE STORAGE MEDIUM

A communication apparatus has a communication function which can concurrently perform first communication via another apparatus and second communication not via the other apparatus. When an error related to the second apparatus occurs while no error related to the first communication has occurred in a state in which the first communication and the second communication are concurrently performed, the communication apparatus stops the second communication without performing reactivation automatically.

(FIG. 10)