

Method and server for crediting a monetary amount to a beneficiary account

According to a first aspect of the invention, there is provided a method for 5 crediting a monetary amount to a beneficiary account from which payments are made, the method comprising: identifying, to a server administering the crediting of the beneficiary account, the beneficiary account to which the monetary amount is to be credited; receiving, at the server, an indication of the monetary amount to credit the beneficiary account; comparing the monetary amount against records of past amounts 10 credited into other beneficiary accounts, the records being stored in a database of the server; generating a result of the comparison; and crediting the beneficiary account with the monetary amount.

FIG. 2

15