

Abstract

In order to further improve a climatically sealed climate cell for cultivating plants in indoor spaces so that contaminants of any type contained in the water supply or in the nutrient solution do not lead to disease in the roots or in the plant, it is proposed that a substrate that is disposed in the accommodation area (12) of a container (10) by means of at least one fixing means is temporarily or permanently fastened to the frame (14).

Figure 3