MAMMALIAN CELL CULTURE

Abstract

The invention provides a method for culturing mammalian cells. The method provides greater control over cell growth to achieve high product titer cell cultures by changing the temperature of the cell culture and/or by starving the cells in their asparagine supply.

Figure 1A