

TERMINAL, BASE STATION, AND COMMUNICATION METHOD

ABSTRACT

A terminal including: a reception circuit that receives information which is directed to a terminal of a first number of types and relates to a second number of settings for a random access signal, the second number being smaller than the first number; and a transmission circuit that transmits the random access signals on the basis of the information.

[Figure 1]