

ABSTRACTRANDOM ACCESS AND SIGNALING OF LONG-TERM REFERENCE
PICTURES IN VIDEO CODING

A video coder can be configured to code a random access point (RAP) picture and code one or more decodable leading pictures (DLPs) for the RAP picture such that all pictures that are targeted for discard precede the DLPs associated with the RAP picture in display order.

Fig. 6