ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a process for purifying enveloped viruses. The process of the invention is useful for recovering at a large scale enveloped viruses under conditions complying with good manufacturing practices and allowing viruses of a clinical grade to be obtained.

[No Suitable Figures]