

ABSTRACT

A semiconductor device includes a lower pattern extending in a first direction, a first blocking structure which is on the lower pattern and includes at least one first blocking film comprising an oxygen-doped crystalline silicon film, a source/drain pattern on the first blocking structure, and a gate structure which extends in a second direction on the lower pattern and includes a gate electrode and a gate insulating film. Related fabrication methods are also discussed.

FIG. 2