SPORTS NETWORKING PLATFORM

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a sports networking platform. The system provides an online platform for sports enthusiasts to connect and communicate in a sports network space via a server. The server enables the user having interest in a particular sport to create his profile in the sports networking space 108 by including his sports related information and further allows the members to share his profile information with other members of the network. Further, the server enables the members to create invitation to other members of the sports networking platform 108 for a sports event/match by providing basic information like location, venue and kind of sport. The member can either create a "standard invite" by inviting the members in his list or create an "open invite" where the server automatically sends the invitation to the list of similar sport members based on their location details.

Figure 1