

ABSTRACT

An energy management system includes: a control slave unit provided for control target equipment; and a master unit that transmits a control signal to the control slave unit. Power line communication is performed between the control slave unit and the master unit. The master unit is installed in power distribution equipment that serves as a base point of an electrical path for a plurality of the control slave units within a control range of the master unit.

FIG. 3