Abstract

The invention relates to the solubilization of lipophilic substances, preferably from the group of lipids, steroids, terpenes and polar lipids by means of a lecithin/polyol matrix or a lecithin/carbohydrate matrix so as to obtain water soluble emulsive transparent concentrates which are used in cosmetic, dietary and pharmaceutical products.