(54) Title: GOLF RANGE GAME
(57) Abstract
A method and facility (10) for playing a game at a golf range. The facility includes a tee area (14) and a range area (16). The range area is divided into target regions (28) that are associated with target identifiers (34, 36). A centre zone (42) is marked in a plurality of the target regions. The game is played by attempting to hit a golf ball from the tee area to a designated target region in the range area. The target region is identified on a scorechart (60) by a target identifier. Points are awarded according to the position where the ball comes to rest relative to the designated target region. A player would hit up to three shots corresponding to up to three targets to complete one hole of the game.
