ABSTRACT

GAME MACHINE

The objective of the present invention is to provide a game machine employing computer simulation. This game machine is provided with a display device in a casing, and includes a game processing unit which executes a game process, and a consumption information processing unit which causes the display device to display consumption information relating to a game.

[Figure 1]