

ABSTRACT:

The present invention relates to an antiviral conjugate. Specifically, the present invention relates to a conjugate represented by formula (I), wherein E comprises a protein or a polypeptide; L is a linker for covalently linking E to D; and D is each independently selected from the structure represented by formula (A). The antiviral conjugate can effectively treat related diseases such as virus infection.

(I)

(A)