

Abstract

The liquefied gas tank for storage and distribution of liquefied gas is designed so that the outer 1 and inner tank 2 touch only through a fixed joint 5 and a sliding bearing 6 where the space 3 between the outer 1 and the inner tank 2 is filled with a material consisting of hollow microspherical particles of sodium borosilicate and synthetic silicon.

Fig. 2