

Abstract

A method for diagnosing rheumatoid arthritis on the basis of the level of an anti-citrullinated SETDB1 antibody, and a kit for use in the method. Provided are a polypeptide for the above-mentioned diagnosis of the level of an anti-citrullinated SETDB1 antibody, and the use thereof in the diagnosis of rheumatoid arthritis.

[Fig. 1B]