ABSTRACT

DOUBLE SECURED I-NANO FACE MASK

A face mask that accommodates the anatomical features of the face, having a nose recess or nose-locating space, extended chin space and close fitting cheek areas. The mask provide security, stability and secure fit by following the anatomical configuration of the face and by the positioning of the slightly elastic holding straps – the upper one is positioned level with the upper nose to the top of the ear and the lower strap from the mid point of the mask to under the ear – the straps form a loop around the ear. The forces and vectors of the whole mask are directed around the balance point of the mask such that any the movement of the mask in one direction is countered by forces in the other.

One or more adhesive strips along the inner edge of the mask doubly ensures protection of the wearer and prevents fogging of spectacles.
