

Abstract:Composite system with high impact strength and a high softening point

- 5 The present invention relates to a composite system, preferably a multilayer film, with high impact strength and a high softening point, and to a method for producing same and to the use thereof.

(No drawing to be published)