

ABSTRACT

The present application relates to a hairdryer control method, a device and a storage medium. The hairdryer control method includes following steps: receiving a hairdryer turn-off signal for stopping the hairdryer; detecting whether or not there is a power down task, and 5 executing the power down task when the power down task is detected. As a result, impact on the driving process of the hairdryer caused by some tasks being executed when the hairdryer is turned on can be avoided.

<FIG. 1>