

【ABSTRACT】

An approach for multipath communication of a terminal via a gateway is provided.

The approach includes storing a whitelist including applications corresponding to multipath

5 communication applicable objects, and generating, when a first application included in the whitelist is executed, at least one path connected to the gateway using at least one of multiplex communication interfaces.