ABSTRACT

Mark structure for coarse wafer alignment and method for manufacturing such a mark structure

A mark structure includes on a substrate, at least four lines. The lines extend parallel to each other in a first direction and are arranged with a pitch between each pair of lines that is directed in a second direction perpendicular to the first direction. The pitch between each pair of selected lines differs from the pitch between each other pair of selected lines.

Figure 1