

Abstract

An agent for enhancing lipid metabolism comprising an amino acid mixture that comprises at least two amino acids selected from the group consisting of arginine, alanine, and phenylalanine, and the agent comprises the at least two amino acids in a molar ratio of 60 mol or more, in total, per 100 mol of the amount of all amino acids.