

ABSTRACT

The information display system according to the present invention includes a status determination unit that acquires a distribution status based on a detection result of a position of an object to be avoided in a target area, a route generation unit that 5 generates a scheduled route on which a vehicle can travel based on the detected distribution status, and a floor display device that displays the scheduled route on a floor of the target area.