

Abstract

The invention relates to a method for creating a second voxel model (VM2) from a first voxel model (VM) to generate a surface offset for an object 5 represented by the first voxel model.