Fixing mistakes
1104
Left-handed? Check out the lefty tutorials here!
1106
When you're learning to crochet, it's always hardest in the beginning. When you hit a bump, just try, try again! Oftentimes it's just one tiny little detail that's in between you and non-stop wooblin'. Once you can make just one stitch, you're most of the way there.
TIPS
Take a break
Watch the videos again annd again, paying attention to a different detail each time. It's amazing how one small detail - the size of the loop on your hook, where exactly your fingers should be - can change everything.
If you find yourself totally lost, reach out to us at help@thewoobles.com with a photo of where you're at and what you need help with. We promise we'll get you wooblin' on your way.
1110
FIX THE PRE-STARTED PIECE
1112
The piece that came with your kit was a magic loop with 6 single crochet stitches in it.
1114
Made a mistake and want to go back to the original magic loop?
Need to put the stitch markers back where they originally were?
Or add stitches to your magic loop?
Need to make a new magic loop?
Magic loop too hard? Try this way to start a round piece by crocheting a chain instead.
Once you have 6 single crochet stitches in the magic loop again, you can make it impossible to take out the pre-started piece in the future.
1114
1110
UNDO STITCHES
Want to undo a stitch? Do it slowly and carefully so you don't accidentally take out more than you meant to 1110
HAVE THE WRONG NUMBER OF STITCHES?
It means you either skipped a stitch or put too many stitches somewhere in the round. There's two things you could do to sort yourself out:
1. If you're the type of person who peels band-aids off nice and slow, then you can undo your stitches sloooowly to track down where you made the mistake.
2. More of a band-aid-ripper-offer? If you used a stitch marker to mark the first stitch of your round, you can undo all of your stitches until you get back to the first stitch of the round.
