

ELEVATOR SYSTEM

ABSTRACT

An elevator control system wherein when it is determined that demand for travel between certain floors is heavy (fig 2a), an elevator car is operated alternately in a mode whereby only the certain floors are served (fig 2c), and in a normal running mode whereby all floors are served (fig 2e). This operating pattern is maintained only for as long as the heavy demand condition exists.

Figs. 2A - 2E

This Sheet Has Been Replaced

