

ABSTRACT

[Problem] Provided is a system that can objectively evaluate a person who makes a presentation (presenter) [Solution] A presentation evaluation system 1 includes: a voice analysis unit 3 that analyzes a content of a conversation, a presentation material related information storage unit 5 that stores information related to a presentation material, a keyword storage unit 7 that stores information related to a keyword in each page of the presentation material, a related term storage unit 9 that stores a related term of each keyword, and an evaluation unit 11 that evaluates the content of the conversation analyzed by the voice analysis unit 3 or a person who had the conversation. The presentation evaluation system 1 evaluates the content of the conversation or the person who had the conversation based on a count of keywords of each page of the presentation material included in the content of the conversation analyzed by the voice analysis unit 3, a count of related terms, a combination of keywords, or a combination of related terms.