ABSTRACT

Provided is a method for video predictive coding. The method includes: determining, according to an executed mode, information of the executed mode in a decision making process of a best mode of a current prediction unit in inter-frame prediction, wherein the information of the executed mode includes a temporary best mode and a cost of the temporary best mode; and determining, based on the information of the executed mode, whether to skip an intra-frame prediction mode of the decision making process.

Fig. 1