

AbstractMethod and device for manufacturing an anisotropic fibrous concrete

This method for manufacturing an anisotropic fibrous concrete is remarkable in that a bead of mortar is extruded with a high density of continuous small 5 diameter fibres (9) that are oriented along the longitudinal direction of this bead.

Figure 1