

ABSTRACT

A method for producing a high-copper-content yeast extract, comprising: extracting the high-copper-content yeast extract by suspending copper-containing yeast into a solution containing a carboxylic acid, a carboxylic acid salt, or both 5 thereof to thereby obtain a suspension, and separating a solid component and a liquid component of the suspension; a high-copper-content yeast extract; food; and an agent for maintaining and restoring a green color of vegetables.