TRANSACTION PAYMENT METHOD AND SYSTEM

ABSTRACT

A transaction payment method, includes the following steps: acquiring payment information about a user, the payment information including a contact number; calling the contact number through an interactive voice response platform to acquire the payment password input by the user; and verifying the payment password and payment information, and performing payment if the verification is passed. The transaction payment method above can be applied to improve payment security. Additionally, also provided is a transaction payment system.

Figure 1