

Light Scattering Element,
specifically for decorative Lighting Purposes.

Abstract

The invention concerns a light scattering element, specifically for decorative purposes, which has macroscopic chaotically or quasi-chaotically formed refracting- and/or reflection planes. The light scattering element can specifically consist of a casing filled with a liquid medium or a flexible material with macroscopic chaotically or quasi-chaotically formed exterior surfaces.

Principal drawing is Fig. 1